

RIVAL FORCES MOVE ON JAMESTOWN

FIFTY ARE KILLED IN STORMS THROUGH THE MIDDLE WEST

STORMS SWEEP OVER MIDDLE WEST, CAUSING MANY DEATHS AND LOSS OF MILLIONS IN PROPERTY DAMAGE

Follows Excessive Rains Which Cause Streams To Go Over Banks—Twisters Cause 21 Deaths in Indiana, as Many in Illinois and the Storm Which Started in Rocky Mountains Reaches Into Ohio

Chicago, April 18.—Sweeping northeastward through the middlewestern states a storm which had its origin in the Rocky Mountain regions Sunday had passed over Ohio today leaving in its wake death and much destruction. A loss of nearly 50 lives was attributed to the storm which developed considerable energy as it progressed eastward taking in many places the form of tornadoes. Damage to property will amount to millions, it is believed.

Accompanied by rains which sent streams already swollen coursing far beyond their usual channels the storm brought added suffering and inconvenience to some communities which for several days have been affected by flood conditions. A drop in the temperature to below the seasonal normal added to the discomfort of families whose homes, having been destroyed by wind or made uninhabitable by floods, are now living in tents or improvised shelters.

21 Killed in Indiana.

Indiana apparently felt the full effect of the windstorms yesterday. In that state 21 persons are known to have met death in different communities. Early yesterday morning the storm centered in Illinois. Striking a number of villages tornadoes wrought havoc to many homes and such reports as were available from agricultural communities which had been stripped of nearly all communication indicated that 22 persons had been killed.

TRAINS ANNULLED

Beardstown, Ill., April 18.—Weakening of the flood covered tracks of the C. B. and Q. railroad this morning resulted in the annulment of all freight traffic into Beardstown. The city now is entirely dependent on a boat for supplies.

With the river at 24.75 feet above the low water mark passenger traffic is also uncertain. The passenger trains moved out of here through 18 inches of water today.

The cold wave last night spread suffering through the tent colonies and gave the Salvation Army workers another opportunity for service. A Central Illinois Public Service Company provided them with numerous electric heaters for distribution where need was greatest.

Maintenance of help is declared to be Beardstown's greatest problem today. The water supply is still unaffected by the flood and the gas plant also.

'FREAKS OF THE STORM'

Danville, Ill., April 18.—Ten persons are known to have been killed, several fatally hurt and a dozen seriously injured in a tornado late Monday.

The little village of Hedrick, Ind., was almost wiped out.

Mrs. Etta Hurley, who with her 13-year-old daughter was alone at her home at Hedrick, was only slightly hurt although all of her clothing except her corset was stripped from her.

A barn was carried away but the horses were left standing on the barn floor uninjured.

LEVEE BREAKS.

Naples, Ill., April 18.—Flooding of the town of Naples was completed today with the breaking of the levee which the entire able-bodied populace had been trying to prevent.

RECOVERING FROM STORMS.

Indianapolis, April 18.—Western and central Indiana was slowly recovering today from the tornado which took at least 16 lives and injured more than 300.

RIVERS SWOLLEN.

Chicago April 18.—Rivers in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Missouri which have been close to flood stage and in some instances have broken through levees causing much damage within the last few days rose still higher today following the rains that accompanied the storm that struck the middle west yesterday.

Floods as menacing as those of 1913 were reported from some points.

BOOKLETS READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

Thomas Hall, Secretary of State has received the printed copies of the recently prepared cumulative table of amendments and repeals recently prepared by Maurice J. Duffy, deputy and the booklets are now ready for distribution to owners of codes throughout the state.

FORM SPUD SOCIETY

Stanton, N. D., April 18.—Herbert J. Roberts, president; H. S. Russell, vice president, and Roy Selbert, secretary-treasurer, were the officers elected by a newly formed Mercer County Potato Growers Association. Fifteen charter members were listed and many more farmers will join the organization shortly. The group will specialize on a home developed species, the "Knife River Triumph potato." Plans call for modern potato warehouse to be erected some time this summer or fall.

CHRISTIANSON NOT CANDIDATE FOR NOMINATION

Jurist in Letter Written to Cass County Man Explains His Position

NOT SURE HE'D ACCEPT

Says That It Is His Desire Not To Become Candidate; If So Would Abide by Convention

Judge Christianson today made public the following letter. When he was asked, "Suppose that in spite of your attitude the Jamestown convention should endorse you for United States senator, then what would you say?" Judge Christianson answered: "I am not prepared to give a definite answer to that question at this time. I hope I shall not be required to answer it. All I can say at this time is that if the event you suppose should come to pass, I shall give to the matter that consideration which its importance demands, and give such answer as my conscience shall dictate." The letter follows:

Bismarck, N. D. April 17.
Mark Andrews, Esq.,
Mapleton, N. D.
Dear Sir:

Your letter enclosing copy of resolutions adopted by a convention held in the tenth legislative district in Cass county has just reached me. I note from your letter that you are secretary of the delegation chosen by such convention to the state convention appointed to be held at Jamestown on April 19, 1922. I also note that you desire to ascertain my views on certain questions. I find it necessary to consider only the first one, namely, the one relating to the Jamestown convention. If I correctly understand your question, you desire to ascertain whether in event I "permit my name to be presented to the convention as a candidate for its endorsement," I will abide by its decision, also whether I am likely to become a candidate at the primary election in opposition to the nominee of the convention.

In reply let me say that if I were seeking the nomination or endorsement of the convention, I should of course abide by the honest judgment of that body. That is, if I were a candidate, I would not submit the merits of my candidacy, either directly or indirectly, to a body organized for the avowed purpose of determining such question, and thereafter refuse to abide by the decision of those whose judgment I had thus invoked. I am not, however, a candidate for Senator. It is true I have received many communications urging me to become a candidate for such office, and have been waited on by many persons who have made similar requests. To all such I have said: "I have no desire to become a candidate for senator. I much prefer to be permitted to continue the work I am in." That statement I now repeat. I do not assert that my wishes are superior to the will of the people. I recognize that they are the rightful masters, and I but one of their servants.

Inasmuch as the question seems to indicate some apprehension that I may become a candidate in opposition to whoever may be endorsed by the Jamestown Convention, let me say further, that I will under no circumstances become a candidate against any person so endorsed. Nor have I any intention of becoming a candidate if that convention makes no endorsement.

Respectfully,
A. M. CHRISTIANSON.

EASTER SERVICE

Washburn, N. D., April 18.—Easter afternoon the choir of the Methodist Episcopal church sang "Easter Memories" Tillotson-Creswell. The choir of twenty-five voices was assisted by G. W. Stewart of Wilton, tenor, and Roy Indach of Bismarck, baritone soloist. A large audience including out of town people, heard the cantata.

IMMIGRATION EFFORTS URGED UPON BANKERS

W. C. McFadden Points Out How County Units May Aid in Developing State

FARM LOANS DISCUSSED

Slope Bankers Elect A. C. Goldtrap to Head Organization For Ensuing Year

Organization of county associations to encourage immigration to North Dakota was urged today by W. C. McFadden, secretary of the North Dakota Bankers' Association, before the Missouri Slope group of the state bankers association in Patterson hall. Mr. McFadden spoke of the Cass County Development Association organized at Fargo and of the progress made by that organization.

Mr. McFadden suggested that such organizations could work in conjunction with the county farm bureaus and with the state authorities in developing North Dakota agricultural lands. He told of the basis of the Cass county organization, which is to seek to reduce the size of the farms and increase the number of farmers.

W. B. DeNault, head of the farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota, spoke to the bankers of the work of that department, and asked cooperation of bankers and people generally in providing long-term loans for farmers on a basis safe for the state.

Direct Speaks on Taxes
Gilbert Semington, state examiner, talked on the responsibilities of bank directors, and pointed out how a bank director who will give attention to the affairs of the banks can be of material assistance in the conduct of the business.

This afternoon A. G. Divet, attorney for the state association, took up the discussion of taxation, generally and particularly with reference to state and national banks.

Bankers Held
The bankers were tendered a banquet at the McKenzie hotel last night as guests of the Bismarck banks. George H. Russ Jr., of Bismarck, was toastmaster. Governor Nestos, Attorney-General Johnson, and Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor Kitchen had been invited to be present as members of the Industrial Commission. About 75 bankers attended the meeting, including several ladies who are engaged in the business.

Mr. Kitchen spoke of the completion of the Missouri river bridge and of the portage it will have to the development of Western North Dakota. Mr. Johnson spoke of the difficulties met in the administration of public affairs, and urged an unselfish interest in the government. Governor Nestos spoke of the obligations of good citizenship upon all members of the community, and the responsibility of each individual in the conduct of the affairs of the community and state.

Officers Named
Organization for the ensuing year was completed with election of the following: President, A. C. Goldtrap; of Regent; Vice-President, A. H. Peterson; of Mandan; Secretary, Roy Selbert; of Bismarck; Treasurer, H. E. Williams; of Sterling; member of executive committee of state association, R. E. Truevale, of Mott. Mr. Goldtrap succeeds H. E. Skauge, of Dickinson.

AVIATORS MAKE 900-MILE JUMP OVER THE OCEAN

Porto Praya, Cape Verde Islands, April 18 (By the A. P.)—The Portuguese trans-Atlantic aviators hopped off at 5:50 o'clock this morning for St. Paul Rocks on the third and probably most dangerous leg of their flight from Lisbon to Rio de Janeiro. Their route lay over 900 miles of water devoid of markers or guideposts and they expect to reach the rocks in mid-Atlantic in from 10 to 12 hours flying time.

WEATHER REPORT

ALLIES DRAFTING NOTE AGAINST RUSSIAN-GERMAN TREATY, REPORT; TREATY IS BOMBHELL AT GENOA

RETURNS FIRE, BURGLARS FLEE

Minneapolis, April 18.—Two gunmen forced their way into the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller here early today, began shooting at Mr. Miller as he lay in bed, but fled leaving blood stains behind when the intended victim drew a pistol from beneath his pillow and fired six shots at them.

FIRE TRUCK IS PURCHASED FOR IMMEDIATE USE

City Commission Acts Upon Bids Received at Commission Meeting Held Last Night

HORSES TO BE RETIRED

Present Apparatus Will Be Mounted on New Truck For Use in Fighting Fires

The city commission, in meeting last night, received and considered bids for furnishing the city with a fire truck, and purchased a truck of the International Harvester Company, Bismarck branch. The truck was to be delivered today, and the apparatus and body of the present hose wagon transferred to the truck chassis, so that it may be put into service immediately.

There were bids received from four firms for furnishing the city with a truck. The truck is of two-ton capacity and can make a speed of about 35 miles an hour, it was said. The chemical tank of the present hose wagon will be mounted on the new truck. It is believed that the department will be able to reach many fires now in time to put them out by use of chemical, rather than resort to the expensive use of the water from city mains.

Horses Retired
The horses probably will be used for a time at least by the street department. Snyder, the veteran horse of the department, is 22 years old and has about 12 years service pulling the truck. Tom, his mate, is about 12 years old.

The bids received last night were as follows: International Harvester Company, two-ton truck, $2,762.90; 1 1/2-ton truck, $2,396.40; 3/4-ton truck, $2,396.40; two-ton truck, $4,133.70; International speed wagon, $1,450; W. B. Nott Company, Minneapolis, American La. France, chassis with equipment, $5,700; chassis only, $3,200; Highway Supply Co., Mitchell, S. D., Menominee one-ton truck, $1,698.50.

Miss Lawrence presented a request of the legislative committee of the Women's Community Council for amendments to the dance ordinance providing no person under influence of liquor be admitted to a public dance hall, that cheek-to-cheek dancing or dancing in improper position be prohibited and that congregating at the dance hall entrances be prohibited. The city attorney will draw up the amendments.

A notice was received from the railroad commission that hearing on the petition of Emil Bobb and others for extension of a six-inch water main on South Twelfth street from Sweet to Magall, streets will be consolidated with the general water hearing on May 1.

Notice was received that the state inspector had rejected for repairs the city scales as unreliable and stating that use must be discontinued by August 1, 1922, unless repaired to meet specifications.

Bills were allowed as follows:
E. M. Stanton (beach work) $ 31.20
Street and Sewer Dept. payroll 164.50
St. Alexius Hospital 94.25
St. Alexius Hospital 147.20
Police payroll 56.00
St. Alexius Hospital 47.25
E. A. Dawson 10.00

OFFICIALS RETURN FROM DICKINSON

Members of the Board of Administration have returned from a visit to Dickinson where they inspected the work on the power house and dormitory being erected at that place. Work on both buildings have progressed to a point where early completion is expected. If working conditions remain good.

LAYING STEEL PLATES

Workmen have commenced laying the steel plates which will support the roadway of the new Liberty Memorial bridge across the Missouri river between Mandan and Bismarck. It will take about fifty days to complete this work, but laying of the roadway can follow closely the actual laying of the plates.

HARMONY URGED UPON FORCES IN PRELIMINARIES

Senator McCumber's Supporters Move For Peaceful Solution of Problems

CHRISTIANSON IS BOOMED

J. D. Bacon of Grand Forks Predicts Support Will Swing to Judge Christianson

Jamestown, April 18.—(By the A. P.)—Camps were pitched here today preliminary to the battle to be staged tomorrow in both Republican and Democratic ranks for the naming of favored sons to be the standard bearers in June.

Representatives of Senator Porter J. McCumber were first on the ground and were working diligently for harmony in spite of the unsatisfactory interviews of the Senator himself with a called meeting of Republican leaders at Fargo yesterday. Both McCumber forces and those opposed to the senator agreed that the meeting was a failure as far as promoting harmony was concerned.

Mr. Hughes, manager of the McCumber campaign, was unqualified in his statement today that the McCumber faction would not be found by the action of the convention here if it was opposed to the incumbent "because the present convention was without legal standing." Mr. Hughes stated that he believed that delegates favorable to McCumber would control of the convention, however. He was counseling harmony in interest of the party.

Progressive forces had not settled upon a senatorial candidate but the statement of J. D. Bacon, publisher of the Grand Forks Herald, and himself frequently named as a possible candidate that "it looked like Christianson" was taken to indicate that A. M. Christianson, justice of the state supreme court, would be strongly endorsed. Mr. Christianson has not announced himself as a candidate.

HEADED TOWARD JAMESTOWN

State officials and politicians in this section of the state were headed toward Jamestown today.

Thomas Hall, Secretary of State, who is mentioned both as a candidate to succeed himself and for endorsement for Congress in the Second district; John Steen, a candidate for renomination as state treasurer; Attorney-General Sveinbjorn Johnson, chairman of the Democratic state committee, were among the officials leaving for Jamestown today. Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent of public instruction, was not expected to go to the convention.

Governor Nestos returned from Minneapolis last night and busied himself at his office today. The Governor will go to Jamestown tonight.

BURLEIGH TO FRONT

It is considered that the first test upon the floor to show the strength of the opposing forces will be either over the election of a temporary chairman or the seating of the Burleigh county delegation.

The question of seating the Burleigh county delegates will be taken up first at 9 o'clock Wednesday by the state committee headed by Judge Spalding. In this meeting the decision will be reached which delegation will be permitted to take part in the preliminary organization of the convention.

The final seating will be decided by the credentials committee of the convention.

Two caucuses have been called, the first meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the second at 8 o'clock. It is expected that the progressive ticket will be agreed upon at the night session.

HALF-RATE ON FEED EXTENDED

Northern Pacific Takes Action To Aid Farmers

The Northern Pacific railroad has extended its half-rate on feed for western North Dakota until April 30, it was announced in a telegram received at the office of Governor Nestos. The telegram reads:

"Owing to delay in getting necessary supply feed to carry through spring work the Northern Pacific will extend time limit half rates under certificates plan to April 30, but cannot make further extension. Give information promptly to County Officials and others interested and have it understood that feed must be in transit on or before April 30 to get half rate. It is understood concession does not apply to seed grain but to coarse grain for feeding purposes only."

FLASHER FIRM SELLS TRACTORS

Flasher, N. D., April 18.—Financial stringencies haven't prevented farmers from getting action on enlarged acreage this spring. One local concern last week sold a total of ten medium sized tractors to farmers of this district.

2 DELEGATIONS WILL GO FROM BURLEIGH CO.

Both Will Claim Right to Represent County at Jamestown Convention

Two delegations will go from Burleigh county to the Jamestown convention, claiming representation for the legislative district of Burleigh county. One delegation is favorable in the majority to Senator McCumber, the other opposed.

The convention, which began at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, was finished about 4:30 p. m. During the early part of the convention it was in an uproar a good part of the time.

The McCumber delegation selected C. B. Little as chairman of it at the Jamestown convention. Those delegates are: C. B. Little, E. T. Burke, Arthur Van Horn, Jack Oberg, D. J. McGillis, Maj. Frank S. Henry, Frank McCormick, Maj. Frayne Baker, Capt. H. T. Murphy, P. P. Bliss, H. G. Higgins, A. L. Garness, Mrs. Edward Banton, E. J. Fogarty.

The anti-McCumber delegation is composed of: Theo. Koffel, Mrs. V. J. La Rose, Mrs. C. W. Smith, Mrs. E. A. Hughes, B. E. Jones, F. E. McCurdy, E. B. Cox, A. W. Lucas, E. G. Wanner, Arthur Bernstein, A. N. Blexrud, A. L. Garness, Harvey Albrecht, G. N. Livdahl.

The McCumber delegation expects to be seated on showing of the action of a majority of the delegates. They also hold that Theodore Koffel was without authority in attempting to take control of the convention at the star and appoint a credentials committee, when E. J. Fogarty, of Sterling, is chairman of the county anti-Townley Republican organization and issued the official call for the convention. The McCumber delegation refused to recognize the right of Koffel to preside at it, and acted upon motions put by E. J. Fogarty.

The convention ended early in the afternoon and delegates opposed to Senator McCumber remained to conduct a meeting. There were several talks during that period.

D. E. Shipley, who was representative from Stark county in the legislature last year, spoke. He talked chiefly upon the state fight, and declared he could not go to Jamestown opposing Senator McCumber if that meant to provoke a fight which would endanger the state ticket.

The anti-McCumber delegates left adopted resolutions in which they reaffirmed belief in and support of the Republican party, endorsed the president, endorsed Viktor Anderson, I. E. Heaton and P. G. Harrington for the legislature, and stated that "we heartily endorse the demand of the people of the state of North Dakota that A. M. Christianson be a candidate for the office of U. S. Senator from North Dakota." The delegates go to Jamestown uninstructed.

Notices of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Notice is hereby given that certain mortgage executed and delivered by A. L. Garness and Abbie C. Garness, his wife, of Regan, North Dakota, to N. N. Hagman and Nels Hagman, Junior, of Blooming Prairie, Minnesota, as mortgagees, dated the 15th day of October 1919 and filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Burleigh county, North Dakota, on the 30th day of October 1919 and duly recorded therein in book 136 of mortgages on page 122, will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises in such mortgage and hereinafter described at the front door of the court house in the city of Bismarck, in the county of Burleigh and state of North Dakota at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1922, to satisfy the amount due on such mortgage on the day of sale.

The premises described in such mortgage and which will be sold to satisfy the same are situated in the county of Burleigh, North Dakota and described as follows, to-wit:

The north-east quarter (N. E. 1/4) of section ten (10) in township one hundred and forty-two (142) north, of range seventy (70) west, of the 10th principal meridian.

Default has occurred in the terms of said mortgage in that the said mortgagee or their grantees of the legal title to said premises, Erick J. Engelbreton, who assumed the payment of said mortgage in a warranty deed of said premises executed and delivered by the said mortgagees to him, which deed was recorded in the office of the said register of deeds on the 28th day of October 1920 in book 108 of deeds on page 299, have failed to pay the interest of $180, due on said mortgage October 15, 1921 and that the said mortgagee or the said Erick J. Engelbreton have failed to pay the 1920 taxes levied upon said premises, amounting, with penalty and interest, to $123.87 and have failed to pay the first installment of the 1921 taxes levied upon said premises, amounting to the sum of $100.00.

Because of such default and under the terms of said mortgage authorizing the said mortgagees in the event of said mortgagee failing to pay the said interest when due, to declare the whole sum secured by said mortgage due and payable, the said mortgagees have declared and now declare the whole sum secured by said mortgage due and payable.

There is due on such mortgage on the day of sale the sum of three thousand five hundred nine dollars and ninety-eight cents ($3,598.98) which sum includes said taxes paid by said mortgagees past due interest and the note secured by said mortgage declared due, including accruing interest thereon to date of sale besides the statutory costs of this foreclosure.

CHILDREN LEARN TO PLAY AND LAUGH AGAIN

Thirana, Albania, April 17.—Albanian children are learning to play for the first time since the beginning of the war and are being taught American games. This has been made possible by funds contributed by American children to the Junior Red Cross.

Until now the children of Albania have never learned to play or to laugh. Ten years of war and internal strife denied them entrance into childhood's promised land. But every day now outside the old Parliament building in Thirana, schoolboys may be seen playing Prisoner's Base, Burn the City, Duck on the Rock, Hop Scotch and other games that have made the American children the brightest in the world.

The girls indulge in all the game and frolics popular among their little sisters in America. During school hours they are taught also to sew, embroider and care for the sick.

MAIL RULING COMPLICATES SITUATION

All mail addressed to board of university and schools lands will be delivered to Carl R. Kositzky, named land commissioner by the board, and all mail addressed to William J. Prater, land commissioner, will be turned over to him by the local postoffice following receipt of ruling from the attorney general's office at Washington.

Because the ruling is indefinite and apparently based on misunderstandings it is likely that further instructions will be asked.

It is probable that court action will be taken within a few days to settle the matter.

AT THE THEATERS

THE ELTINGE

"To the table David," with Richard Barthelmess is the attraction at the Eltinge for Monday. It is taken from Joseph Herg's novel's Saturday Evening Post story. It is the appealing story of a youth of the Virginia mountains. Folks said he was "jest" to be a boy but he'd grow up. Davy had a fierce desire to show them he was a man, and show them, he did it's a picture with both power and pathos.

PHOTOPLAY NOVELTY TO OPEN A RUN HERE

A distinct photoplay novelty is promised in "Footfalls," the William Fox super-special which will begin a run at the Capitol theater tonight. New York reviewers and audiences hailed the production as a notable motion picture achievement.

Those who have read the story of "Footfalls" by Wilbur Daniel Steele, which was awarded first prize as the best short story published in America in 1920, by the O. Henry Committee of the Society of Arts and Sciences, will wonder how it could be presented faithfully as a picture play, for the central idea hinges upon sound and hearing. It is said, however, that William Fox and Director Charles J. Brabin, by means of a number of ingenious devices, have achieved a sort of screen miracle in this regard, giving a vivid impression of the sound and hearing of footfalls throughout.

"Footfalls" is declared to be a gripping and thrilling mystery photoplay, a ciné-drama of an entirely new type. It deals with the experiences of a blind cobbler in a little New England fishing village. Edmund Scudder developed an extremely acute sense of hearing and a faculty which enables him not only to recognize any resident of the village by the sound of his or her footfalls, but to sense the state of mind of his intimates in the same way. The footfalls the blind man listens for most earnestly are those of an assassin whom he feels sure will return some day to the scene of his crime.

The cast includes Tyrone Power in the role of the blind cobbler, Estelle Taylor, Tom Douglas and Gladden James.

Dance every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings 8:30 at The Coliseum. 10 Cents per dance.

COUNTY'S QUOTA SET AT $2,700 FOR CAMPAIGN

Letter Sent Out From Fargo Asks That Campaign Fund Be Raised Early

Burleigh county's quota for the primary campaign fund is set at $2,700 by the committee of 45. The call for funds was sent out from Fargo, April 13, over the names of B. F. Spalding, chairman of the Republican committee, Theodore Nelson of the I. V. A. and Steinbjorn Johnson, as chairman of the Democratic committee. The letter follows:

Fargo, N. D., April 13, 1922.

Fellow Committeemen and County Chairman:

This is to inform you that a satisfactory arrangement has been made with reference to division of work and the assembling and division of necessary campaign funds for the primary election as between the Democratic, Republican and I. V. A. state committees and that by the terms of such agreement it is possible to collect the funds for the three committees in one collection as in the past.

It has been further agreed that Mr. T. L. Engen, Box 609, Fargo, N. D., shall act as joint treasurer. Also that in the division of work connected with the campaign, it has been arranged that the I. V. A. state headquarters shall have charge of the joint assembling of the funds needed by the three state committees. In this connection it is respectfully urged upon all local political workers that they cooperate fully and promptly in whatever method is adopted for the assembling of funds needed for the state committees from their respective counties or districts, and it is especially urged that the work of assembling the campaign funds be speeded up so as to have assembled and ready to place in the hands of the joint treasurer, Mr. Engen, at the time that the state conventions are held (April 19) at least one third of the total quota for each legislative district or county. Another one-third by the 15th of May and the last third (the whole quota) not later than the 15th of June.

It will of course, not be either possible or practical to ask each voter to contribute one third of what he is going to eventually contribute, but there are undoubtedly enough voters who can contribute their whole share now to make up the first third to be raised. Others can come in the second installment and those that will have to be reached by driving in the country can come in for the last installment.

State campaigns have been handicapped in the past because of the fact that state committees have been in the dark as to what funds would be available for their use until just a few days before election. In many cases they had to personally obligate themselves.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

selves and then beg for money to pay up after the election. May we depend on you to help us to avoid that handicap and annoyance this time?

Independent republicans and democrats everywhere are agreed that no campaign can be carried on by the state committees without funds and that the funds must be gathered sometime. Our business sense also makes us admit that funds on hand are of more value than funds that may come—more effective work can be done with a smaller total under those conditions—therefore, when times are as hard as they are now, campaign funds should be assembled earlier than usual in order to make them go further.

The success of the pending campaign against Townleyism is almost wholly dependent upon the manner in which county and legislative chairmen and district committeemen take hold of the work of assembling campaign funds. There is nothing that shows better where the independents are up and at it than the manner in which they go at the raising of their campaign funds. Every independent voter who contributes to the campaign fund is a fighter for the independent cause. Every independent voter who puts his or her name on a subscription list for the independent campaign fund is invariably a fighter that can never be either bought or bluffed by the opposition.

We are relying upon you the independent, republican and democratic county chairmen and committeemen to see to it that at least one third of the campaign funds allotment for your county is raised and put in Mr. Engen's hands on or before the date of the Jamestown convention; that a high class independent legislative ticket composed of men and women who will agree to work industriously for the new election is put in the field; that the voters are gotten to the polls and the every precaution is taken to elect precinct committeemen on primary election day for each of the republican and democratic parties who can be relied on to oppose every effort that may be made to turn over the state organization of either party to the henchmen of Townley or any other clique that might want to use the organization for selfish purposes and to the detriment of the voters of the state.

Cave Man Stuff

BACK near the beginning of things, our prehistoric forebears would have perished from the earth if they had not understood the science of reading advertising.

The cavemen didn't know much about underwear, hair tonic or phonographs, but they did have to eat. The one who could follow the tracks of the game he hunted, or read the meaning of a twisted leaf or broken twig, was best off in life.

Then as now, the most consistent reader of advertising was best dressed, best fed and most contented.

There has been something of an evolution in advertising in the last few thousands of years, but the principle is just the same.

The consistent reader of the advertisements is invariably best informed on what to eat and where to get it; what to wear and how much to pay for it; what to do and how to do it. He's up on the most important things in life. Consequently he gets most from life.

Throughout the ages, advertising has done much to make life livable and pleasant. We owe it much.

Let's make the most of it.

NEW CAR COMES TO GRIEF WHILE ON FIRST TRIP

Capitol Street Car Line Is Operated For Short Time—But Only a Short Time

RAILS SPREAD UNDER IT

The capitol street car line was operated last night for a time—but only a very short time. The street car was imported from Grand Forks, placed on the track after many hours work, started away manfully for a good night's rest in the capitol street car barn. Having been the butt of many jokes as it was being put on the track downtown the car sailed right along, laughing at its traducers, with Charles Liessman, of the board of administration, acting as "skipper" and several small boys as voluntary passengers for the inauguration. The car trotted right up capitol hill and was nearing the summit, about 300 feet beyond the end of the pavement when—bump—bump—bump! The passengers were jolted and the car roared and rocked as it fell off the rails and plowed for a very few feet while the brakes were set hard against its unruly tendencies. The official explanation was that the rails spread and caused the car to go off the track. The car was still upright and it was to be put back on the track again. In the short space of time, however, it earned a sobriquet from the small boy passengers, who nick-named it the "track jumper".

It required about seven hours to get the car on the track, and there were some who watched the moving of the car from the railroad car on which it was transported who were unkind enough to hope it never got there. The car is one of ancient vintage, seasoned with many years service on the Grand Forks street railway company's lines, has a truck in the middle instead of trucks at each end, which permits a gentle swaying up and down as it makes its way up capitol hill. It is freshly painted, a dark green, is warranted to have a good motor, only cost $550, and has a record, so its sponsors say, of having withstood about all the abuse students of the university at Grand Forks could heap on it, including the job of carrying a crowd of students filling the car, standing on the steps and using the roof for an observation platform.

The car was transported to Bismarck on a Northern Pacific flat car. It was untried on a sidetrack at the Gamble-Robinson company's plant, with Superintendent Hawks, of the Grand Forks Street Railway Company's plant, superintending the unloading. A short track was laid and a highway commission truck furnished motive power to get the car to the track on Main street. The job started early in the afternoon and was being completed toward eight o'clock last night, without untoward incident except the remarks of bystanders who did not like the appearance of the car. There was no "skipper" on the car to resent the remarks, however, and the workmen were too busy with the big job of getting it on the track to pay heed to them.

The car was finally put on the track, and it sailed away for the capitol barn to spend the night and perhaps eventually to follow its predecessor into the museum of the historical society.

MANDAN NEWS

CAHILL CASE IS POSTPONED

The hearing of the Cahill-Murphy case, which was to have been held before Judge Berry in Mandan yesterday on the motion for change of venue, was postponed until Saturday. The original writ restraining the board of administration from interfering with Cahill, is returnable on April 25.

Judge Berry said that there was question as to whether or not he was qualified to sit in the case because of newspaper articles written about it. In a written statement he said:

"Journalism in this state should seek to rise to a higher level. Newspapers should not drag the court in the mire, nor assume that they are political aid societies or dispensers of political patronage. They should know that the courts are actuated solely by the salutary and well established principles of law and equity. Any other assumption is destructive of one of our American institutions."

McCUMBER STATES VIEWS ON ISSUES CONFRONTING STATE

Senator McCumber before leaving Fargo for Washington issued the following interview to the press:

"Throughout my service in the senate," he said, "I have been classed as a conservative. I have always stood for progress by the slow but sure route. I am not a radical, I am not a socialist. I don't believe that any business can be operated by the government as economically and efficiently as it can under private ownership. The big factor of private initiative and the incentive of profit are lacking. I do believe in the regulation and control of business enterprises which vitally affect the citizens in general, such as the railroads but I am opposed to government operation and ownership."

"For that reason I have always expected the attacks of radicals. I have never dodged them, but have met them openly and fairly. But I did not expect to be attacked by the men and women who believe as I do in these matters, and who are working along the same lines for sane and sound government. It is therefore something of a shock to me to return to North Dakota after a long absence made necessary by the fact that not only congress but the committees of which I am a member have been in almost continuous session for two years, to find that some people to whom I naturally looked for support are opposing me for reasons which I believe are groundless."

I took no part whatever, either directly or indirectly, in the candidacy of Mr. White. I never knew anything about Mr. White's candidacy until just about the time of the adjournment of congress about June 5. After the adjournment I started immediately to join my daughter who was very seriously ill in California, stopping on the way at the national convention in Chicago. It was there I heard that Mr. White had withdrawn as a candidate. I thought nothing more about it.

"Some time late in the month of August, I think it was, I received a letter from Mr. White in California stating that if I had not already agreed to endorse anyone he would like to be a candidate for the position of United States treasurer to succeed Mr. Burke. I replied in substance that I knew of no reason why I could not give him my support. The position was an important one. Mr. White had been governor of the state of North Dakota. He has served with credit in the Spanish war and again in France during the World war. He had always been friendly to me when I had been a candidate before the people. But one of the principal reasons for lending him my support was that I felt that I was also expressing a sentiment of gratitude to the soldier boys of both of these wars."

"I never knew anything about the conditions as to how or why Mr. White was a candidate, or why he withdrew. I acted entirely upon my own knowledge of his past friendship and his record as an official and as a soldier without consulting anyone else. I do not know why he entered the campaign or why he withdrew from the race, and nothing concerning the primary election was considered by me for a single moment in connection with his candidacy."

The Miller Case.

"Now as to the appointment of Judge Miller:

"I have never before heard it urged that because an attorney had been employed by this person or that person to conduct a suit he thereby forfeited his right to be a candidate for a judicial position."

"I will tell you why I selected Mr. Miller. Mr. Miller did not present himself as a candidate. I asked him to become a candidate. I never asked or knew who had or had not been his clients. I never knew that there had been any suits between the City of Bismarck and the Bismarck Water Supply company. It is but fair to say, however, that if I had known, it would have made no difference in my support."

"I supported Gunder Olson of Graton for collector of internal revenue. I had promised my support to Mr. Shea for United States marshal. I had agreed to support Mr. LaMoore of Pembina for collector of customs. I supported Mr. Stone of LaMoore county for federal prohibition director. Most of these, if not all, were enrolled in the ranks of Independent Voters' association. But their particular affiliation with this or that organization was not considered. If you will look over the map of North Dakota you will find that the men selected for these important positions were all from the eastern part of the state. There has been a growing complaint in the western section of the state that all the political plums fell in the eastern section. This complaint was too well founded. I therefore determined to recognize the western part of the state in the matter of appointment of judge and of district attorney and I began looking over the field."

"I knew Mr. Miller had been attorney general of the state for six years. I knew he had successfully handled most important cases in which he had upheld our state laws in the supreme court of the United States although there were pointed against him the most able counsel of the country."

There was an element in the character of Mr. Miller which appealed to me. I had followed his course in the political campaigns in our state, and although was supporting a different element in the Republican ranks, I could not but observe Mr. Miller's freedom from bitterness or personalities in his campaigns. This was a splendid characteristic."

"Another element of his character which I had observed and admired was the freedom from that astuteness which we often find in our judiciary. I had found him sympathetic and merciful, qualities which are too seldom exercised in this world."

"My judgment of his character was sustained in all the trying period after I had presented his name in which he was most unjustly assailed. When after charge was made against him and never one of them was sustained in the slightest degree. The subcommittee who heard the testimony expressed their astonishment that charges of this kind were made with no foundation and no support."

Attitude During Recall.

"Now as to my attitude during the fall election of 1920 and the recall election of 1921, I have given the same statement to every one who has written me asking me for my views."

A good many Republicans, as well as good Democrats, in the state thought I should have joined them in their I. Y. A. contest against the Nonpartisan league. And because of my failure to do so they charge me with having become a socialist, supporting socialist doctrines. On the other hand, former farmer friends of mine, members of the Nonpartisan league, because I did not espouse their cause say that I belonged to the Independent Voters' association and had no sympathy for the farmers in their struggle to better their conditions. However, every man and woman in the state, who has taken the trouble to inform himself or herself knows that I have always been a straight conservative Republican, and have never evidenced any socialist tendencies. On the other hand, every farmer in the state knows that during all this time I have stood firm for every bit of legislation that might in any degree help our farming interest, and have always done what I could in behalf of our farmers on every important occasion. I do not think there is a man in the senate who has made as many speeches on farm subjects and presented their cause as often as I have."

"I pursued what to me, as a Republican, charged with the perpetuity of the Republican party both in the state and the nation, was the only proper and consistent course. I have always been a Republican and from childhood have been schooled in that particular creed. All that I have ever received of political honor or preferment has been generously extended to me by the hand of the Republican organization of my state and country. The least I can give in return is fidelity to that party."

"I do not think I am hidebound in my sentiments of loyalty to my own party. I have both admiration and honor for the old Democratic party which, through many defeats, is still as vigorous and virile as ever; and if the Republican policy should ever be abandoned in this country, I would rather see it succeeded by the Democratic policy than by any of the 'isms' which have come into existence."

"Now as to my attitude in the recall election:

"To begin with I have never favored the recall as a principle. I took no part on either side."

"As the then ranking member of the committee on finance, owing to the illness of Senator Penrose, I had charge of the revenue bill both in the committee and before the senate. No sooner was that bill disposed of than the hearings on the tariff bill began, and I have had charge of the work on that bill. The committee on finance has been in continuous session, without any recess, since December of 1920."

"During my 23 years of service in the senate I have never expected to be able to please every one of my constituents. In a body in which the arguments, the conclusions and the votes of senators express thousands of divergent views, it is scarcely possible that I could be right on every one of mine. But I have faithfully tried to serve the people of the state and nation to the very best of my ability, and my vote has always been recorded on the side which I have believed to be right and to be for the best interests of both."

"My friends tell me it would be better if I could spend more time in the state. Are you aware that since my last election the senate has been in almost continuous session? In sending me to the senate the people of the state expected, and the nation expected, of me first attention to national business. There are many capable men and women in the state who are in close touch with state matters and who are not engrossed at all in national legislation. Therefore, if time cannot be given to both without detriment to one interest or the other, I am certain that you will agree with me that, having been elected to give my attention to national matters, it was my duty to attend to those matters during the session of the senate. The only time that I have ever been absent from my own state during any recess of congress was for about two months in 1920 when it was absolutely necessary for me to be at the bedside of my daughter."

PEOPLE'S FORUM

ANSWERS EDITORIAL.

Bismarck, Apr. 4, 1922.

Editor, The Tribune:

The Courier-News carried a one and one-quarter column editorial in its issue of the 12th under the heading "Turning the Key" in which it quoted a statement issued by Mr. DeNault, director of the Farm Loan Department, to the effect that the Department cannot give priority of consideration to applicants for farm loans on the ground that foreclosures have been threatened or started; that to do so would place a premium upon the threatening and starting of many foreclosures; that the department gives preferred consideration to cases where the foreclosures were started a year ago and the periods of redemption are about to expire.

It would seem that this statement, would appeal to any far-sighted, normal person as just and right. It was issued to correct an erroneous impression held by holders of past due mortgages and to prevent foreclosures and needless expense and worry to the farmers of our state, as the Department could not possibly care for the avalanche of foreclosures that would probably otherwise result.

This Department has bent every effort and is bending every effort to save the homes of farmers whose security was adequate and whose period of redemption was about to expire. Its appraisers, in some cases, were unable to inspect such farms except on horse-back during the blizzards of the past winter. It has forwarded remittances to take up such foreclosures to responsible parties without having received executed papers or abstracts, relying upon such parties to secure a first lien, and where the Department's regular appraisers were not quickly available it has had such cases appraised by local parties acting as special appraisers upon instructions wired to them. In fact, it has cut red-tape and office routine wherever and whenever same stood in the way of prompt attention to any urgent case threatening actual loss of a farmer's land. The day this editorial appeared an emergency loan was being completed by telegram and telephone to save a farmer's home. In this case the farmer did not even have an application filed in the Department. He had wired for help when his arrangements for a loan elsewhere failed him one week before his year of redemption would expire under foreclosure. His loan was appraised, passed upon, approved and papers signed and recorded in a distant part of the state within six days from the receipt of his first telegram. The very purpose of this statement, as shown upon its face, is to prevent foreclosures, and yet it called forth this long editorial attack.

WOULD REBUILD INDIAN VILLAGE NEAR BISMARCK

Bismarck's Chapter of the American Association of Engineers Is Behind Movement

COLLECTING INFORMATION

Bismarck's chapter of the American Association of Engineers is contemplating the rebuilding of an Indian village near here. A survey of the former location is being made and all possible information is being collected to add in the complete restoration of the village if the action is finally decided upon by the chapter. It will be one of the objects of interest for tourists when the completion of the bridge will make possible a far larger tourist travel through this section of North Dakota.

The old Indian village was on a high bluff of the Missouri river, a mile or two above the present bridge. It is one of the highest points, if not the highest point in the immediate vicinity. Towards the river the ground slopes so deeply as to be almost a precipice. The hill to the north also slopes away sharply from the top of the hill and a deep ravine cuts into the plain at a point to the south.

The outline of the village can still be seen in the ditch which surrounded the place and the outlines of the walls, the rings where the houses once stood and other factors of the long ago Indian headquarters are all to be observed. One item, a community grinding stone, worn in the top of a great boulder, remains to show the actual work of the years ago.

The place is commanding. Hundreds of feet below is the Missouri. Between the bluff and the river are trees, while the cross-river country is a plain. Down the river, its waters are crossed by the railroad and the new vehicular bridge, but excepting for these the river can be seen unobstructed for miles. Across the river in an angle in the hills is Mandan. Down the river a little ways was Fort A. Lincoln, and on the hilltop above that its predecessor in Indian fighting history. Still farther south, beyond the bend of the Missouri, rises a high peaked butte, while the hills roll back to meet the sky as far as the eye can reach.

Away from the river, the eye looks down upon a farmstead, then follows for a few miles a wonderful valley, and then the plain broken by an occasional farmhouse, until the capitol building and some of the other buildings of Bismarck come into view, with the wide stretching benches to the east of Bismarck in the distance.

John H. Haigh of Carlyle, Montana, who was then and is now a Banker and Land Speculator, was granted a loan of $20,000 on land in Golden Valley County, his applications being numbered 1473, 1474, and 1475, and he received loans numbered 46, 47 and 48.

D. J. McMahon, who was then and is now a Land Speculator of St. Paul, was granted a loan of $25,000, his applications being numbered 1848, 1849, 1850 and 1851. His loan was among the first of those completed, although it has not a completed loan number, the title not being in condition to complete, though the full amount of the loan was paid.

John N. Hagan, a member of the Industrial Commission, was granted a loan of $2900, his application being No. 1219, his loan being No. 36.

In both the Haigh and McMahon loans the record discloses that a cash commission was paid and there appears no other reason for their advancement and completion over hundreds of other applications from resident farmers of our state who never did receive a loan from the former administration.

Very truly yours,
P. H. BUTLER.

I will not say it's a cruel world Because it's been so to me, I'll keep my banner of hope unfurled For all of the world to see; If I've been plunged in the blackest night Shall I whimper and whine and wail? Shall I dare deny there is any light, Because all my beacons fail?

Because I have lost in the fight with fate Shall I sing in a moaning strain? Because I have found the odds too great Shall I say that the fight is vain? No, I shall learn by my own defeat From the sorrow that comes to me.

To sing how life may be brave and sweet In the glory of victory! If I've been down in the depth of hell With a damned and a broken clan, I still shall carol that all is well With the conquering soul of man; I shall not say it's a cruel world Because it has mastered me, But I'll keep the banner of hope unfurled For all of the world to see. The "flapper" as she is today is the result of art according to Miss Bertha R. Palmer of the State Department of Education, chairman of the art section of the fine arts committee of the North Dakota Federation of Women's Clubs. In making this statement Miss Palmer does not refer to complexions, lip sticks, etc., but to the art that glazes from magazine covers, from advertisements and from billboards.

The young girl looketh upon these, in the opinion of Miss Palmer, and as they are omnipresent and form her complete horizon, she attempts to be like them. An equal prominence to pictures of the Madonnas, of Florence in the following report issued by J.

G. Diamond, statistician for the federal bureau of markets and crop estimates:

"A typical late spring, not unfavorable excepting in the retardation of field work and pastures, say reporters. Fields generally are just about free from snow and frost and are drying slowly, due to low temperatures.
On an average, field work is reported about two weeks later than last year, with no seeding of consequence to date. Moisture conditions, generally satisfactory for the state as a whole, are considered above the average by correspondents in the western half of the state. Roads, excepting highways, are still in poor condition.

"Farm reserves of grain with the exception of corn, are placed below last year's average, but are considered by reporters to be generally sufficient for feed and seed requirements. A few reports from western and southwestern points say that some shipment in for both feed and seed needs will be necessary. Potato stocks appear to be somewhat uneven, although held to be sufficient for all needs. Weather conditions have continued favorable for rye, the spring condition of which is above average.

"Late Improvement
While the outlook of livestock, due to the severe winter, appears to be slightly below average, reports note some improvement since April 1. In sections where feed has been short stock is reported thin and weak, especially horses. There has been some pasturing on old stubble fields, but green feed from most part has not yet started. A few reports from the southeastern district say the outlook for the spring pig crop is satisfactory."

NASH FOUR AND SIX CYLINDER
CARS POPULAR

Increase in sales of Nash cars for the first quarter of the year of more than 50 per cent are shown over the same period in 1921. The company's four and six cylinder car factories are oversold. There are on hand for April delivery orders for 6025 cars, including sixes and fours, as against 3307 orders for the same month last year.

These facts were brought out in an interview with C. W. Nash on his return from an extended trip throughout the northwest, west and southwest.

"The first quarter of 1922 shows an increase in our sales; in number of cars, of more than 50 per cent over the same period last year," said Mr.
Nash. "With reference to our four-cylinder car we have at this moment almost twice as many orders for April as we will be able to produce in the plant. The factory ran in March to its full capacity yet we carried over into April something like 400 or 500
unfilled orders."

"Every indication points to the fact that the four-cylinder car factory will carry over into May over 1000 unfilled orders."

There also are many unfilled orders for April at the Nash Motors six-cylinder car plant where every effort is being made to meet the heavy demand.

SCHOOL COUNCIL
ENTERS PROTEST

Stockholm, April 18.—Announcement that Mrs. Katherine Tingley, theosophist leader, of Point Loma,
Calif., intended to establish a Raja
Yoga school on the island of Wisnau, in Lake Vattern, one of the beautiful spots of Sweden, has evoked a protest from the school council of Wisnau parish.

The council adopted a report stating that Mrs. Tingley's project was "a movement to spread and implant the ideas of theosophy, diametrically opposed to the Christian foundation on which the Swedish school system is still based."

The council added that the community of Wisnau had no sympathy for Mrs. Tingley's reported project and that reports of her presence in Sweden to prepare for the establishment of the Raja Yoga school "had aroused a general feeling of apprehension."

Friends of Mrs. Tingley have announced that she has decided not to erect the proposed school at present.

RADIO PIERCES STONE WALLS

The wheel-like frames are the Antenna that catch Radio Messages through brick walls in General Squier's office in Washington.

BY HARRY B. HUNT.

Washington, April 18.—On a table 3x12 feet, in a room adjoining the office of Maj. Gen. Squier, chief of the army signal corps, stand the most unique long-distance radio receiving sets in the country.

Everything connected with the two sets is contained within the walls of the room. There are no outside antennae, with aerial towers and wires to catch the wireless waves from the open ether.

The windows may be shut, the key-holes plugged, every chink through which a fugitive wavelet might be expected to creep in tightly closed, and yet the instruments in this room will pick up the messages broadcasted from Bordeaux, France, Nauens, Germany, or Carnarvon, Wales, as clearly and distinctly as will the Arlington station with its three massive towers and its network of high-strung antennae.

Penetrating through brick and plaster and glass, the radio waves are picked up by small coil or loop antennae, strung like yarn on a reel about three feet in diameter.

Each dot and dash, however, is clear and distinct and easily read by anyone familiar with Morse.

The development of the loop antennae, General Squier says, removes one of the serious problems following the rapid expansion of radio.

In cities, the entire sky threatened to become overhung with a network of radio wires. This unsightly and complicated web of wires may now be altogether dispensed with and each receiving set so built that no part of it need extend outside the four walls of the room where the set is located.

LEADERS STAY
IN SAME PLACES

Ford and Dodge Brothers Head List on Motor Car Manufacturers for 1921.

Present reports indicate that no changes occurred last year in the positions of the two leading automobile manufacturers, considering the total production of cars. As was the case in 1920, Ford ranked first and Dodge Brothers second.

The total number of passenger cars built during the year, according to an estimate published recently by the Wall Street Journal, was 1,535,000, as compared with 1,383,150 for 1920.

Commenting on the general condition of the automotive industry, just prior to the close of the year, the Boston News Bureau published the following, which was subsequently confirmed by Dodge Brothers:

"Because it is privately owned, relatively little in the way of figures ever appears in print concerning the activity of the Dodge Brothers motor organization of Detroit. Consequently its splendid and emphatic expansion in production this year and the maintenance even in recent weeks of a high output, which makes it one of the conspicuous bright spots of the industry are not generally known outside the trade."

"Dodge Brothers in the third quarter of this year ranked next to Ford among the world's automobile producers, with a monthly shipment record of better than 11,000 cars. This average is nearly maintained—within several hundred cars—in October, an unusual achievement in this year of unsettlement and competition in the motor industry."

"Considering that production the first quarter of the year was down to 3,000 cars, less than one-fourth of the same quarter in 1920, and less than any single month's subsequent production, that vitality that is Dodge Brothers is apparent. The company should end the year with a final output of between 91,000 and 92,000 cars and probably hold its position as the leader of the industry next to Ford.
The heritage left by the Dodge Brothers is thus being splendidly upheld by the present management."

It is understood that Dodge Brothers finished the year with a total production of 92,476 cars, which is over 13,000 cars greater production than the next nearest competitor, not including Ford, the leadership of Dodge Brothers continued by making good the News Bureau's prediction.

ADVENTURE OF
THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Away started the Twins over the Seven Valleys to the Kingdom of the Korsknotts.

As they passed the white palace of the Princess Therna she gazed sadly down from her window in a tall tower.

She sighed, but not a word of greeting could she call to them. She had a secret that she dared to tell no one.

She kissed a white dove and sent it fluttering down from her tower to the green meadow where the road ran. It perched on a fence and then flew toward the Twins and settled on Nancy's shoulder.

"I shall stay with you until you are safely across the Seven Valleys," it cooed. "For they are dangerous to travelers. Besides Twelve Toes the Sorcerer, is still watching you from afar. The first valley is the Curlew Valley. The only way to get out of it is by the postern gate. And the postern gate is hard to find. But I'll help you; don't get discouraged."

As the dove finished speaking the Twins came to a place that looked like the edge of the world. They were on a high precipice. Houses, trees and fields looked like toys below them.

"This is Curlew Valley," said the dove. "The path down into it begins yonder. Keep to the path and no matter what you see don't turn aside until I tell you."

"Thank you," said Nancy, reaching up and stroking its soft, white feathers lovingly. "We'll try to do everything you say."

The dove flew away then, down toward the valley below, and lighted on a top branch of an indiantobey tree. The Twins could no longer see it, but they could hear its soft voice cooing to them encouragingly.

"Come," said Nick. "We'll have to hurry, Nancy." And he started off toward the rock to find the path that led down into Curlew Valley.

You certainly realize the difference in Corn Flakes
when you eat Kellogg's

From the instant you open the generous sized package till they're tucked away in great and tiny "bread-baskets," Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a delight! You can't even look at those big sunny-brown flakes, all joyously flavored, crisp and crunchy, without getting hungry! Kellogg's are never leathery or tough or hard to eat—they're just wonderful!

Such a spread for big and little boys and girls—
the sweetheart of fine white corn kernels deliciously flavored and deliciously toasted in Kellogg's own way! You can't imagine anything more joyous to eat at any hour.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are childhood's ideal food! Kiddies can eat as much as they can carry! Every mouthful makes for health, for sleepy-time-stomachs!

1,000 SEED
LOANS IN N. D.
APPROVED

Grand Forks, N. D., Apr. 18.—According to the latest figures from the federal seed loan office in this city, a total of $205,521 has been distributed to the farmers of North Dakota, Montana and South Dakota. By far the largest amount has gone for seed in this state, $157,267.50 so far having been loaned in North Dakota, covering an even thousand applications which have been approved. Montana has received $47,388.50 for 329 loans and South Dakota, $915 for ten loans.

The flood of applications that is now pouring into the local office together with the wish of the executive force to get the money to the farmers as quickly as possible, due to the fact that the season is getting late, has caused a big increase in help during the past week, and in addition to the three large rooms originally occupied on the third floor of the federal building, three more on the second floor are now being used.

In North Dakota Hettinger county still holds the lead in the number and amount of loans. One hundred eighty-four applications have been approved in that county for $30,482.50.
Bottineau is the only county outside of those in the southwestern section that has received an amount of five figures.

The amounts and loans by counties
for North Dakota follow:

County	Loans	Amount

Today's word is MALIGNANT.
It's pronounced—ma-lig-nant, with accent on the second syllable.
It means—malignant, disposed to do harm, bent on evil, inimical, actuated by enmity.
It comes from—Latin "malignare," to act maliciously.
Companion words—malignity, mal-ignancy.
It's used like this—"Some people think that modern modes of dress are

MOTHER, when one of the children is constipated are you going to give the first laxative within reach? It is dangerous to do so. Some have been known to rupture the intestines of little children.
Don't be beguiled by the outside sugary appearance. Look into the formula. Calomel is seldom necessary; salts, minerals, coal tar, never!
Unlike these, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is admirable for children, as it is for grown people, too. Mothers have been giving it to children for 30 years. They know it does not gripe, and is free from narcotics. The formula is on every package, and you can see it is vegetable, just a combination of Egyptian Senna and other laxative herbs with pep-sin. Use it yourself and you will find it is not necessary to take it every day, nor to increase the dose, and that it is pleasant to the taste. Bottles can be had at all drug stores, and the cost is only about a cent a dose. Have no hesitancy giving it to a baby in arms. It is absolutely safe.

Now That You're My Husband, I Hate You!

HER eyes blazed furiously at him! She—his bride of but a few hours! He made another attempt to enter the bridal chamber, but—she slammed the door in his face!
Why had she acted so strangely?
Was the sin he committed great enough to warrant his bride's action? After all she was now his wife! She had no right to hate him!
What would you do if a short time after your marriage you found yourself in a strange city and suddenly discovered that the man who was your husband was everything a man should not be. Would you solve the problem as did the wife in "A Honeymoon 'On High.'"
Read this thrilling, gripping tale of a curious conflict between a newly married couple, as told in the May issue of

True Story
Magazine

You will be amazed at what happened on their strange honeymoon. See how fearlessly the author lays bare the sore spot of America's homes of wealth and fashion. And remember above all that the tale is a true story—a real happening—as are all the stories in True Story Magazine.
That's what makes it the most unique publication in the magazine field today. Its stories are virtually written by its readers. Fearlessly and looking life squarely in the face they write of life's experiences—with a vividness and intensity that is made possible only because the stories are true. You will find these stories far more fascinating than ordinary magazine fiction because after all "Truth is stranger than fiction."
Read "The Dead Speakeer"—the powerful story of a mother love that even death could not conquer. It will bring a tear to your eye—but it will also bring you a new realization of the most beautiful of loves—that of a mother for the child she bore. Read "Cupid Versus John Barleycorn." See how heroically a woman fought for the man she loved against this man's worst enemy—drink. You will marvel at the wife's ingenuity in routing the "demon" in an entirely new and unusual way.
Some More Real Life Stories
These are but a few of the many virile stories of breathing, living men and women that you will find in the May issue. There is "A Bachelor Husband"—a novel tale of New York's famous Greenwich Village. There is "Honor Thy Father," the story of a runaway girl that you will read with quickened pulse. Read the "Whistling Girl," and see how "pucker up and whistle" kept one girl's courage up. Thrill at "The Life Story of a Bank Burglar," a truly amazing confession of a professional crook. Learn of the reward that comes to a woman with faith and devotion in "A Scrap of Paper." Go behind the scenes of the theatre in "From Out the Dark," and see how an actor is compelled by circumstances to play a part he can never forget.
There are many other remarkable human stories in the May issue which you will find worth while reading. If you are not already a reader of True Story Magazine and are not acquainted with its powerful, convincing real life stories, then get the May issue by all means.
Each story brings home a powerful truth. Sham and hypocrisy are exposed—candidly and without fear. True Story Magazine has the courage of its convictions—and its human heart appeal has won to it almost half a million of readers. Buy the May issue at your newsstand—or

BEAUTY CULTURE HINTS

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

SCOUT NOTES

Girl Scout, Troop No. 1
A meeting of the Episcopal Girl Scouts was held at the Parish house last Thursday evening, April 13. Louise Berndt was chairman of the meeting.

The following new members were voted into the following patrols: First patrol—Marlys Lahr, Second patrol—Escher Holtz, and Phyllis Rosen.

The girls planned for a hike on Monday. Following the business meeting the girls dyed Easter eggs for the Sunday school. Clarice Belk was appointed chairman of the next meeting on Friday at 7:15 o'clock. The second patrol will entertain the troop at a three-course dinner. An interesting program is being arranged.

The Girl Scouts left the parish house at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and hiked to Ward's Grove.

Episcopal Troop No. 3
Final arrangements have been made for the overnight hike which will be made tomorrow.

O. W. Roberts of the Weather Bureau has promised the best of weather so that everything will be O. K. in that regard.

The advance party commanded by Scout McCormick will leave the Parish House at 7 o'clock and will be followed by the rest of the party at 9 o'clock.

The following should be taken by each Scout.

One ground sheet, waterproof if possible; two large thick blankets; one duck bed cover, hard tin to be used as kettle, the lid of the same can be used as a frying pan; cup, plate, knife and fork, spoon and a jack knife; five or six yards of strong cord, the Scout handbook.

Warm underclothing must be worn. Shoes that are strong and well broken in are advised. Woolen sweater and warm overcoat should be worn.

Regarding food—that will depend on the size and capacity of the scout. The following, however, will give some idea of what will be needed:

Beefsteak, bacon, eggs, hard boiled, bread, sugar, coffee, cocoa or tea. Small tin of syrup, condensed milk, salt. You will bring enough for five meals. Don't bring anything that is not really necessary as each scout will be expected to carry his own outfit.

Program

Wednesday, 7 A. M.—Pioneer party will leave the Parish House.

9:00—Main troop will leave the Parish House.

11:30—Arrive at destination.

12:30—Dinner.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake is Made by Many Bismarck Citizens. Lock for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

If it's weak kidneys you must get the kidneys working right. A Bismarck resident tells you how. Mrs. Jack Kenyon, 417 Mandan Ave., says, "Several years ago I gave a public recommendation for Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit one of my family had received. Since then I have had occasion to use them myself for an attack of kidney trouble. I had puffy sacs underneath my eyes and pains in my back. It was hard for me to do my housework at times. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I am glad to again recommend Doan's, knowing them to be a remedy of wonderful merit. The cure they made for me has lasted several years."

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WHAT'S AHEAD OF US?

You like everyone else in the country, are wondering:

First—When business gets going good again, how will times compare with the great boom of 1919?

Second—What standard of living lies in store for the average American?

On every hand you hear people saying, "I guess we can't expect times ever to get as good again as they were during the silk-shirt days of the war boom."

Developments in the iron and steel industry suggest that this may be the wrong view. For instance:

During March the country produced 2,034,794 tons of pig iron, or roughly four-fifths as much as in March, 1918, which was a typical month of normal "good times."

Before the war it was customary for pig iron output to increase 1,000,000 tons a year to take care of the normal growth of the country's needs.

On this basis, if the climb had continued normally and there hadn't been a war, pig production in March, 1922, would have been 3,225,000 tons, which compares with 3,090,243 tons produced in March 1919, during the boom.

In other words, pig iron output during the war boom was no larger than the normal, natural growth.

How about the future standard of living? Nearly everyone has learned from bitter experience that prices and dollars have very little to do with it. The real standard of living is the amount of commodities you are able to buy with your money.

Furthermore, America can buy only in proportion to what it produces.

If the farmers raise 106,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, there's only one bushel for each of us. But we have three bushels apiece if they raise 318,000,000 bushels.

Similarly, if the men who make autos produce 106,000,000 cars a year, there's a car for each of us. If only 1,060,000 cars are produced in a year there's only a car for each 100 persons.

The future standard of living will depend largely on how much we Americans produce—how hard we work.

To pay the interest on our national debt would take nearly one one-thirty-second of the American people's total income in 1913. The burden, unless pyramided by profiteers, is not big enough to subtract materially from the future standard of living.

INVENTION

A French inventor has a device that takes 25,000 photographs a second. It will be a big help to rapid movies which slow down action and show you each step of the growth of a plant or men jumping hurdles.

The rapid camera stretches a second into a minute. Time is relative, elastic.

PRICES

The stock market shoots upward. This, according to some economists, is just one of the many straws in the wind, pointing to a secondary period of inflation ahead.

That is, a house which you are offered $8000 for now might bring $12,000 later on—"if," which is a big word.

In the price declines that followed the Napoleonic and Civil wars, people had the same notion. Prices would stop falling, begin to rise, then slump again.

In a general way, their path was like the teeth of a saw, up and down, with each succeeding saw tooth lower than the one before. As to the future, one guess is as good as another.

COAL

The coal that lies unmined in the ground is enough to last only 200 years, under present wasteful methods of mining. So says Percy Tetlow, director of the Ohio State Department of Industrial Relations.

The Geological Survey, on the other hand, says that the unmined coal reserves of America are about 5,000,000,000,000 tons, or enough to last more than 8000 years unless we begin burning coal twice as fast as in the last five years.

The most striking characteristic about experts is that no two of them seem to agree. Somewhere there exists an "expert" who can prove almost anything.

BURNING MONEY

Millions of tree seeds have been given to France by Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry Association.

England and France both realize the value of trees. France, for instance, once was a dense wood. Now her tree growth is so scarce that peasants collect bundles of small twigs.

Unless we stop destroying our forests, our country in another generation may be as lacking in forests as France.

President Harding by proclamation sets aside the week beginning April 16 as Forest Protection Week. The last day will be the golden anniversary of Arbor Day. It is one of the few "special weeks" worth observing 1000 times over.

Your line of thought probably runs like this: "Forest preservation is up to Uncle Sam and to the corporations that destroy the forests to make money. What can I, a citizen who rarely chops down a tree, do to increase forests?"

For one thing, whenever you camp or stroll in the woods, you can be extremely careful about starting forest fires.

The area of forest land swept by fire each year is about twice the area cut over annually by logging crews.

Our country has an average of 32,500 forest fires a year.

If you have children, teach them that preservation of forests is the only way to insure an ample supply of lumber for the future without paying sky-high prices.

With a little common sense, Americans would raise a yearly crop of trees, just as they raise wheat, corn and cotton.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE FAMILY OF MAN O' WAR

A bay filly was born the other day on the Riddle farm in Lexington, Ky. She is more interested now in maintaining a stance on her rickety young legs than she is in her pedigree which is a long affairs splashed with stars. But horse lovers are concerned mightily over the young lady's appearance because they know her dad. She is the first horse sired by Man o' War.

What will the future hold for this unnamed daughter of the king of the turf and patrician mother, Masquerador? Will she upset the ancient theory that anthropologists advance in histories of human-kind and horsemen in racing animals; that the first child is not the best? Not only tradition but recent statistics discount any glowing prophecy for her success.—Detroit Journal.

BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTEES

Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska are conspicuous among the states which have adopted varying systems of state guarantee of bank deposits. It is well to pause and consider the results in these experiments of socializing the banking business.

Within the last six months there have been 45 state bank liquidations in Oklahoma, and 20 bank failures in that state. As a result the deposit guarantee fund is bankrupt. At the beginning of this year there was $34,000 in the Oklahoma bank guarantee fund, with claims of more than $1,000,000 against the fund. Today those claims total more than $4,500,000.

The state has issued $2,500,000 of 6 per cent certificates, which the taxpayers must eventually pay, and is preparing to float a bond issue to liquidate the obligation of the fund. The fund was established in 1909. During the next year demands for $4,000,000 were met. In recent times 96 national banks, which had reorganized as Oklahoma State banks because their condition was such that the national bank examiners would no longer tolerate their existence without new capital abandoned their state charters.

In Nebraska there have been assessments of $1,000,000 to supply deficiencies in the guarantee fund. In Kansas, premiums of 33 per cent to 50 per cent have been offered for cash deposits against certificates of deposit of banks which had no resources to meet them.

This does not mean that there is so wide a difference between state and national bank organization. It merely means that the national system and the state system are no stronger than the supervision which they are accorded impels them to be. When state bank examination and supervision is as lax as it has been in these three states, and when the state guarantees the deposits of its banks, there is no incentive on the part of the depositor to discriminate between weak banks inefficiently managed and strong banks conservatively directed, nor is there so much of an inducement for bank officers to maintain reserves and give the ultimate of protection to depositors, if the deposits are guaranteed by law.

State guarantee of bank deposits puts a premium on incompetence and dishonesty and encourages the depositor to neglect the obligation of investigating his bank, an obligation which sound business sense should impose upon him.

The sad experiment of these three states has cured the voters of some of our commonwealths of another Utopian idea.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

AND IT LOOKS LIKE A LONG VISIT, TOO

Nona had written of it in ringing words. She flushed in beautiful ardor of this enthusiasm she joined with Sabre's at his opening words of their meeting, but she ended with a sad little laugh. "And then?" she said. "What do you mean, Nona, 'And then'?"

She took a letter from her bag. "I only got this this morning just as I was coming away. It is in reply to the one I wrote him about us V. C. Oh, Marko, so splendid, so utterly splendid as he is, and then to be like this! Look, he says he's just got leave and he's going to spend it in Paris! One of his women is there. That Mrs. Winfred. He's taken up with her again. He says, 'Poor thing. She's all alone in Paris. I know how sorry you will feel for her, and I feel I ought to go and look after her. I know you will agree with me. I'll tell her you sent me. That will amuse and please her so.'"

She touched her eyes with her handkerchief. "It rather hurts, Marko. It's not that I mind his going. It's just what he would do. But it's the way he tells me. He just says it like that deliberately because he knows it will hurt. So utterly splendid, Marko, so utterly graceful!" She gave her little note of sadness again. "It's terribly splendid! Look, this is all he says about his V. C. Isn't this him and isn't it like him? He says, 'P. S. Yes, that V. C. business. You know why I got it, don't you? It stands for Very anxious, you know.'"

They laughed together. Yes, like him! Tybar exactly! Sabre could see him writing the letter. Delighting in saying words that would hurt, delighting in his own whimsicality that would amuse. Splendid, airy, untouched by fear, untouched by thought, fearless, faithful, unselfish, graceful. Tybar's darling, invested in her robes of mockery.

Nona's laughter ended in a little catch at her breath. He touched her arm. "Let's walk, Nona."

III.

He thought he was looking thin and done up. Her face had rather a drawn look, its soft roundness gone. He thought she never had looked so beautiful to him. She spoke to him of what she had tried to say in her letters of his disappointments in offering himself for service. Never had her sweet voice sounded so exquisitely tender to him. They spoke of the war. Never but in their letters, had he been able thus to give his feelings and receive them, touched with the same perceptions, kindled and enlarged, back into his sympathies again.

He shook his head, not trusting himself to look at her. He said, "You don't know. I can't know the right thing. But strength to do it—strength to flow out of you to me. It always has! I want it more and more. It's all in it. Things are difficult. Sometimes I've a frightful feeling that things are closing in on me. There's Shelley's 'Ode to the West Wind.' It makes me—I don't know—wrought up. And sometimes I've the feeling that I'm being carried along like that and too afraid to hold on to the rope—to believe it. If Winter comes—can Spring be far behind?"

He stopped. He said, "Give me your handkerchief to keep. Nona. Something of your own to keep. There will be strength in it for me—to hold on to the rope—to believe it. If Winter comes—can Spring be far behind?"

She touched her eyes and he touched hers and gave it to him.

IV.

Sabre had always thought it to be the would be wonderful with old Mrs. Perch. He wrote long letters to Young Perch, telling him how much more than wonderful Bright Effie was. Effie mothered Mrs. Perch and managed her and humored her in a way that not even Young Perch himself could have bettered.

"Marvelous Effie!" Sabre used to think; and of course it was because her astounding fund of humor was based upon her all-embracing capacity for love. Sabre liked immensely the half-whispered talks with her while Mrs. Perch dozed in her chair. Effie was always happy.

One evening he asked her a most extraordinary question, shot out of him without intending it, discharged out of his questioning thoughts as by a hidden spring suddenly touched by groping fingers.

"Effie, do you love God?"

Her surprise seemed to him to be at the thing he had asked than at his amazing unexpectedness and amazing irrelevancy. "Why, of course do, Mr. Sabre."

"Why do you?"

She said in simple wonderment, as he asked what had the sun to do with light, or whether water was wet. "Why, God is love."

He stared at her.

The second Christmas of the war came. The evening before the last lay of the Old Year was to have given Sabre a rare pleasure to which he had been immensely looking forward. He was to have spent it with Mr.

Fergus. The old chess and acrostic evenings hardly ever happened now. It was to have been a real long evening; but it proved not very long. At ten o'clock profound gymnastics of the mind in search of a hidden word beginning with e and ending with i were interrupted by the entry of the maid. "Please, Mr. Sabre, I think it's for you, Mr. Sabre."

"For me? Who on earth—?"

He opened it. He did not recognize the writing on the envelope. He unfolded it. Ah!

"Freddie's killed. Please do come at once. I think she's dying.—E. B."

CHAPTER VII.

He was alone in the room where Mrs. Perch lay—not even Effie. One o'clock. This war!

The doctor had been and was coming again in the morning. There was nothing to be done, he had said; just watch her.

Watch her? How long had he been standing at the foot of the huge bed—the biggest bed he had ever seen—and what was there to watch? "Sinking," the doctor had said. In process here before his eyes, but not to be seen by them, awful and mysterious things. Death with practiced fingers about his awful and mysterious surgery of separating the spirit from the flesh, the soul from the body, the incorruptible from the corruptible.

But Young Perch was dead. Young Perch was killed. It was real. He was here. This war!

He felt very cold. He moved from the bed and replenished the fire and crouched beside it.

There was some strange sound in the room. He had dozed in a chair. Some strange sound or had he imagined it? He sat up tensely and listened. It was her breathing a harsh and labored sound. He stepped quickly to the bed and looked and then ran into the passage and called loudly, "Effie! Effie!"

Frightening, terrible, agonizing. He was kneeling on one side of the bed, Effie at the other. The extreme moment was come to her that lay between them. She was moaning. He

HEALTHFUL HOME FOR THE POULTRY

Proper Housing Is Secret of Success With Chickens.

GOOD HOUSE FOR 200 HENS

This Design Provides Fresh Air Without Draught, a Maximum of Light and Ample Protection From the Weather.

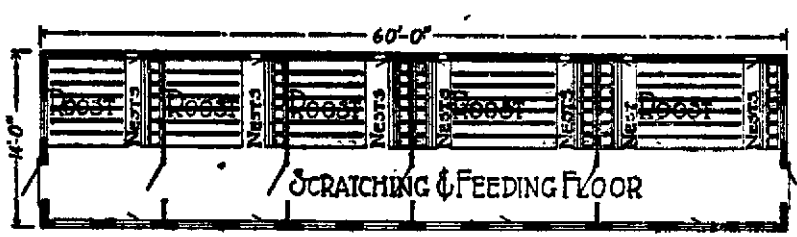

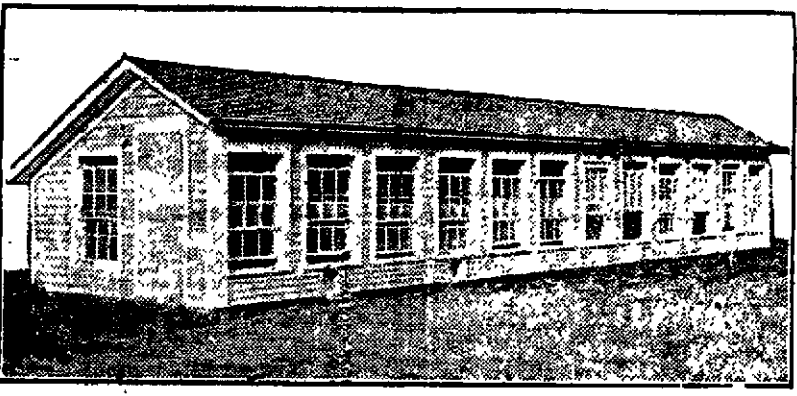

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

If the adult reader lived on a farm in his or her youth and daily "hunted" the eggs, "hunted" was the right name for this youthful farm chore. For it was not until comparatively a few years ago that the importance of the farm poultry flock and its housing came to be realized. Chickens usually had the run of the place, the yard about the farmhouse and other farm buildings and the fields; they went to roost in trees, or wherever their inclinations suggested and made their nests in the stable mangers, hay loft and other desirable places.

But with the help of the state agricultural colleges farmers have been brought to realize that there is a good profit from poultry. The hens daily produce a crop of eggs that brings in a continuous flow of cash; also they furnish the farm home with healthful food, both eggs and meat. Properly cared for and housed, the farm poultry flock is most profitable.

Records of costs, production and receipts were carefully kept on the flocks of fifty-two West Virginia farms last year and the results astonished even the most optimistic poultry adherents. The average cash income above the cost of feeding was $813.08, while one farmer with 160 hens had cash receipts of $1,515, while the costs for feed were $240, leaving a net return for labor, etc. of $1,270. Successful poultry raisers and farmers now bend their energies to ward one point—production of eggs when prices are highest, which is during the last three months of the year. To do this they practice scientific feeding, close culling of the flocks so as to retain the layers and to quickly market the non-layers and maintain the flock during the cold weather in a well-constructed poultry house. In fact management of a poultry flock is a science in itself.

Shown in the accompanying illustration is a good, but not expensive poultry house that will furnish adequate quarters for a flock of 200 chickens. This house is 14 feet wide and 60 feet long, which gives each hen slightly more than four square feet of space. The house is divided into five sections, each of which may be closed to the next one. Thus the pullets, which, when they are about to lay, should not be allowed to run with old hens, may be kept separate, and the flock can be divided so that none of the diseases hens are subject to will sweep through the whole house should they get a start.

This house is of frame construction, set on a concrete foundation. It should be located on a well-drained site, preferably a piece of ground that slopes toward the south. One side has many windows, and this side should face the south so as to get the full benefit of the sun on the short winter days. The concrete floor should be covered with litter and the feed scattered in it, thus forcing the hens to exercise in order to get their feed. The feeding should be done regularly at stated hours, and should be a balanced ration, composed of such food as the hens get in summer when they are allowed range over the farm. The windows provide ventilation, which is essential for the health of the flock. However, care should be taken on cold and windy days not to allow the outdoor air to come in so as to hit the chickens directly. A cold draught sweeping through the house causes roup, or influenza, which in a short time will kill many of the birds.

The floor plan that accompanies the

exterior view of the building shows how and where the equipment should be placed. The roosts are located at the back of the house, where there is less light. Plenty of room should be provided on the roosts so the hens will not be crowded. Beneath the roosts are removable dropping boards so that the manure may be removed frequently. Cleanliness is important in a poultry house. The walls should be kept well whitewashed, and the litter on the floor changed frequently. The nests should be a foot square, with about the same amount of head room. They should be filled with hay or straw that is as soft as possible, so that the hens will be comfortable.

Greater egg production is secured in the winter time by installing electric lights in the house. The poultry on the American farm originated in tropical and semi-tropical countries and to be normal should not be kept in the dark more than six or seven hours. Many farmers have installed electric lights, which are automatically turned on early in the morning—about 4 o'clock—by an alarm clock, which throws a switch. A feed of grain has been scattered in the litter after dark the evening before, and as the lights flash on, the hens will fly from the roosts and go to work gathering their breakfasts. It is exercise that keeps them laying—exercise coupled with proper feed. An inactive hen gets fat and does not lay as well as a hen that is kept on the move by her desire for food.

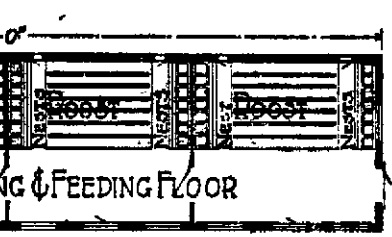

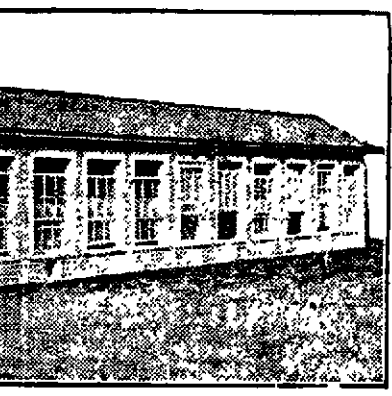

As was stated, there is a good profit in a farm poultry flock, which on the average farm should number at least 200 hens and roosters. But in order to reap this profit adequate quarters must be provided.

MYSTERY WANTS SOLUTION

Why Are the Haberdasheries in the Big Cities Constantly on the Verge of Trouble?

Among the curiosities of our urban landscape are the haberdasheries which are just about to move away, or fail, or go out of business. As long as the memory of man runneth, from their windows, blossoming with shirts of all colors, has flashed that same categorical imperative: "Must Move Out at Once"—"Must Raise Money at Once"—"It's All Over, Our Loss Your Gain"—and so on.

And yet they persist, and nothing seems more permanent! You go away—to Europe, the Andes, the South pole. Wars rage, empires rise and fall. You return to find friends disappeared, old bachelors married, the old house replaced by some towering ward one point—production of eggs when prices are highest, which is during the last three months of the year. To do this they practice scientific feeding, close culling of the flocks so as to retain the layers and to quickly market the non-layers and maintain the flock during the cold weather in a well-constructed poultry house. In fact management of a poultry flock is a science in itself.

Shown in the accompanying illustration is a good, but not expensive poultry house that will furnish adequate quarters for a flock of 200 chickens. This house is 14 feet wide and 60 feet long, which gives each hen slightly more than four square feet of space. The house is divided into five sections, each of which may be closed to the next one. Thus the pullets, which, when they are about to lay, should not be allowed to run with old hens, may be kept separate, and the flock can be divided so that none of the diseases hens are subject to will sweep through the whole house should they get a start.

This house is of frame construction, set on a concrete foundation. It should be located on a well-drained site, preferably a piece of ground that slopes toward the south. One side has many windows, and this side should face the south so as to get the full benefit of the sun on the short winter days. The concrete floor should be covered with litter and the feed scattered in it, thus forcing the hens to exercise in order to get their feed. The feeding should be done regularly at stated hours, and should be a balanced ration, composed of such food as the hens get in summer when they are allowed range over the farm. The windows provide ventilation, which is essential for the health of the flock. However, care should be taken on cold and windy days not to allow the outdoor air to come in so as to hit the chickens directly. A cold draught sweeping through the house causes roup, or influenza, which in a short time will kill many of the birds.

The floor plan that accompanies the

exterior view of the building shows how and where the equipment should be placed. The roosts are located at the back of the house, where there is less light. Plenty of room should be provided on the roosts so the hens will not be crowded. Beneath the roosts are removable dropping boards so that the manure may be removed frequently. Cleanliness is important in a poultry house. The walls should be kept well whitewashed, and the litter on the floor changed frequently. The nests should be a foot square, with about the same amount of head room. They should be filled with hay or straw that is as soft as possible, so that the hens will be comfortable.

WHEAT IN UPWARD SWING

Chicago, April 18.—Wheat took a new upward swing in price today during the early trading. Notable absence of pressure to sell in Chicago and a renewal of crop damage reports from the Southwest tended also to stimulate buying. Initial quotations were followed by a rise all around to well above yesterday's finish.

Up to midday there was persistent buying on the part of houses with eastern connections, prices meanwhile continuing to ascend. Later, however, the market rapidly lost ground.

DAKOTA LEAGUE STARTS MAY 18, ENDS AUGUST 27

Three New Teams—Jamestown, Fargo, Valley City—Will Be In The League This Year

CANTILION IS HOPEFUL

Minneapolis, Minn., April 18.—Play in the Dakota baseball league this season will start on Thursday, May 18, it was announced today by M. E. Cantilion, of Minneapolis, president of the league. Simultaneously he gave out a schedule covering the season, which will end on Sunday, August 27.

When "play ball" rings out, the teams will line up as follows: Valley City, at Jamestown, Fargo at Wahpeton-Breckenridge, Aberdeen at Watertown, and Mitchell at Sioux Falls.

According to the schedule, each team will engage in seven games with opponents. Two or three games will be played on the first two road trips, while on the last jaunt only one game will be played on several occasions.

Holiday Schedules.—Jamestown will finish the season at Mitchell; Valley City at Sioux Falls; Fargo at Aberdeen, and Wahpeton-Breckenridge at Watertown.

Waterbury and Sioux Falls will both open and close the season on the home grounds, while Fargo and Valley City have home assignments on neither, the latter two being the only teams which have neither the initial nor final contest on home stands.

Holiday schedules for July 4 have been arranged so that where possible morning and afternoon games will be played in cities of both teams.

On the morning of July 4, Jamestown will travel to Valley City, returning to Jamestown with the latter club for the afternoon engagement.

New Teams in Action.—The same arrangement will bring Fargo to Wahpeton-Breckenridge for the morning game, with the scene of action being shifted to Fargo for the second performance. Aberdeen, however, will play a double header at Sioux Falls and Watertown will play holiday assignment of two games at Mitchell.

Kota has ball fans who will see three new teams in action this year—Fargo, Valley City and Jamestown—which supplanted baseball organizations from Madison, Redfield and Haron. The change was made, according to President Cantilion, because of lack of patronage by baseball enthusiasts in the three cities.

President Cantilion is confident in his predictions of a banner year for the young professional baseball league.

REAL BUSY DAY FOR CATCHERS

Eight Players Retired at Plate In Major League Game

Did you ever hear of eight men being thrown out at the plate in a major league ball game?

Well such a thing actually happened. The game was played at St. Louis just prior to the opening of the present season between the Browns and Cardinals.

The fact that it was the deciding game of the spring series gives some idea of how bitterly it was fought. If the Cardinals won, it meant a tie, a Brown victory gave the series three to one in favor of the American League.

The Browns won by a score of 6 to 3. Each team had four men snuffed out at the plate, George Sisler, speed merchant of the Browns, being put out at the plate.

Frank Baker Slows Up; Huggins Is Worried

In baseball had less but more players out of the majors than any other cause.

A great many players are forced out of the big show because of weak underpinning when their batting eye and arm are as strong as ever.

Frank Baker is reported having trouble with his knees. If such is the case it will have a serious effect on his fielding and the chances of his team.

By Cobb is walking around with a cane because of an injured ankle. The other day Cobb admitted that his leg was going back, that he was slowing up.

He went even further by saying that from now on he will play the conservative game, that the boys will have to hit him around.

Then there is the case of Frank Baker. It is giving Miller Huggins much concern. Baker at the present time is fielding on a recent piece.

Baker's arm is as good as ever and he still takes a mean cut at the ball, but he has slowed up so much that he is covering so little ground around third that Huggins is worried.

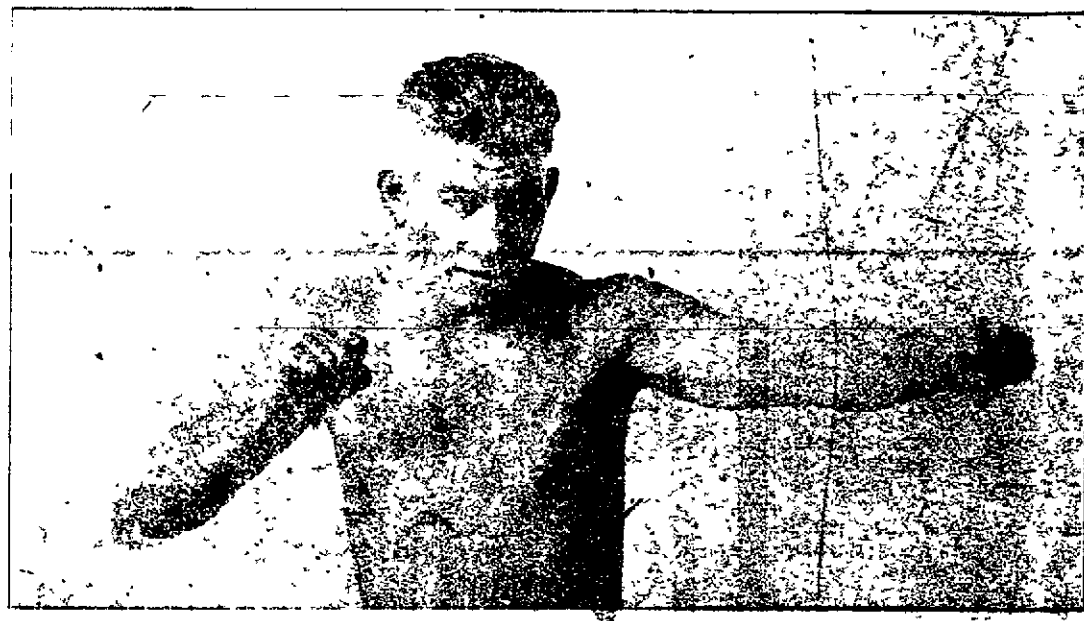

Unless Baker shows an improvement in his fielding it is said that Warlick will be sent to third and McNally shifted to second.

200 FARMERS ENTERTAINED BUSINESS MEN

Hatton, N. D., April 18.—A departure from the usual mode of entertainment, was taken here Tuesday evening, when more than 200 farmers of the surrounding country, entertained Hatton business men at a general gathering.

Virtually every Hatton business man, and farmers from every direction, attended the affair, which was pronounced by all to be the most successful attempt of its kind heretofore made.

The gathering had been talked of for some time, and at a meeting of the Farmers' Community club held recently, E. O. Nelson and Albert Bjertness took the matter in hand and with the assistance of several other farmers made arrangements for the festivities. It is believed that the Hatton "party" was the first of a like nature yet held in North Dakota.

N. B. Orland, Selmer Digness and M. T. Smiley were on the arrangements committee, and, assisted by several others, made a canvass of the country in all directions and enlisted the support of practically the entire country-side.

Duplicate whist was the main diversion of the evening. While the games were in progress, malt was dispensed and cigars were passed. Honors in the whist games went to the business men, although the scores were close. A lunch was served at midnight.

INTERNATIONAL COUNTERFEITERS HARD AT WORK

Berlin, April 18.—A band of international counterfeiters with branch offices in almost every European country, America and Australia, has established headquarters in Berlin, say police and Reichsbank investigators.

Monies of half a dozen countries are being manufactured here. A score of arrests have been made but authorities say the band is still functioning.

In addition there have been many arrests of counterfeiters operating alone, making either German or American money. American dollar and $10 notes are favorite productions of the counterfeiters. German 50, 100 and 1,000-mark notes also are widely counterfeited.

Confederates of the counterfeiters usually dispose of the German money counterfeited here in a foreign country—France, Holland, Belgium, Sweden or Norway. The to coin money made in Germany is marketed here.

One of the counterfeiters arrested was the proprietor of a large hotel in Amsterdam who posed as a pleasure-seeker and lived elegantly in the best hotels.

A German counterfeiter of 100-mark notes was employed as merchant in a big artificial ice-skating rink here. He established his workshop in the attic of the "ice palace," and surrounded it with electric wires so arranged that unexpected entrance would cause an explosion in the "mint" and destroy the "evidence."

The proprietor of the rink watched him and informed the police who cut the wires, entered and found the mechanician busily printing money.

Newsprint Prices Still Soaring In Germany

Berlin, April 18.—Collapse of German newspapers is becoming daily more imminent owing to the "ruthless dictatorship" of newspaper manufacturing syndicates, says a manifesto issued by more than 300 German publishers after a meeting at Weimar.

The manifesto declares that with newspaper prices constantly soaring, publishers are forced to sell their newspapers to persons backed by foreign capital.

Another evil resulting from the high cost of paper, the manifesto declares is the flood of stereotyped matter which is offered at low cost to the newspapers, and which they are compelled to accept because they are not able to buy desirable news.

The publishers call upon the government to take measures to remedy this "deplorable state of affairs."

CHAMPION DEMPSEY SAILS FOR EUROPE

JACK DEMPSEY AND HIS MANAGER, JACK KEARNS, BRIDING FAREWELL TO FRIENDS ON THE PIER BEFORE SAILING FOR EUROPE

DEMPSEY KEEN TO MEET BEST IN ENGLAND

BY BOB DORMAN.
New York, April 17.—Well, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the universe, and the "Beau Brummel" of his division, has left American soil. Jack sailed on the Aquitania for England with all the eclat of a scion of some European royal house.

Broadway, both male and female, at least that part of it from around 43d street, turned out en masse to bid "goodby and good luck" to the departing champ.

What's that you say? Where do I get that Beau Brummel stuff? Say, listen, and I'll put you wise. Before Jack left he bought a complete set of new togs.

Morning togs, afternoon togs, evening togs, togs for any and all occasions.

When I asked him "Why all the glad rags, Jack?" he whispered: "Listen, I am going to England hoping to get a crack at some of their heavyweights over there. But if I can't knock 'em out in a ring I'll knock 'em cold with the clothes."

Seriously, though, I am hoping that I can get a fight over there.

"I am more than anxious to give Carpenter, Beckert, or anyone else, a chance if some promoter cares to offer the proper inducements."

"I am tired of all this theatrical stuff and only wish that I could get a chance to step into a ring."

"But as it is, all I have in sight is some engagements in the music halls, and then I suppose I'll take in the sights unless something turns up."

"But just put it down in your little book that nothing would please me better than to get a hurry-up call to come back to the little old U. S. A. and mix it with somebody."

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL FOR CAVALIER CO.

Landgon, N. D., April 18.—Construction here next year of a Cavalier county soldiers' memorial hospital, which was authorized by popular vote two years ago, was favored by the consensus of opinion of a recent meeting here of interested citizens and representatives of organizations.

Since the hospital was authorized, the matter has been dragging along and no definite action has been taken, due chiefly to stringent financial conditions. Last year's hospital levy was cut out.

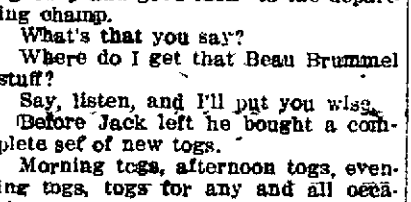

General sentiment of the meeting was that the need and desire for the hospital is as urgent as ever, that some definite action or official position should be taken in the matter, that building conditions probably will be more favorable next year, and that the county should be able to finance erection of a hospital, with about 30 beds, costing about $50,000.

The meeting asked the county commissioners to make public their position on the project, to outline future plans, and to inform the public of the effect of dropping the hospital levy of last year.

A committee has been appointed to examine all phases of the matter and to meet with the commissioners May 9. In the meantime the commissioners are securing various plans and estimates on hospitals of the size and cost contemplated.

RENAISSANCE IN CHICKEN HOUSE Architecture

Fargo, N. D., April 18.—There is going to be a renaissance in chicken house architecture this spring, according to C. A. Barton, poultry specialist at the Agricultural College here. Only this summer will have a gothic tendency instead of classical, as the original Renaissance was.

As a table is the outstanding feature of the new style. This is to provide room for a loft on which straw is to be spread a foot deep or more. This straw absorbs the moisture in the chicken house and keeps it dry. Ventilation must be provided for this straw loft so that air may circulate through it and take the moisture from the straw.

SCHOOL DISTRICT TO ISSUE BONDS

Leith, N. D., April 18.—At the special school election of Saunders school district No. 25, held at the Lutheran church in this village last Saturday, the question of whether or not this district should issue bonds in the sum of $8,000, for the construction of a new school building was voted upon, and the result was 102 to 3, in favor of issuing bonds. Considerable opposition to the issuing of bonds prevailed for a time prior to the election, but at the final windup nearly all were convinced that this was the proper step to take to insure the erection of a new school building to take the place of the beautiful structure destroyed by fire.

LAST NUN IN PORTUGAL DIES

Lisbon April 18.—Mother Maria Rosa de Jesus, a Carmelite nun who has just died at Braga at the age of 89, is said to have been the last nun in Portugal.

She belonged to the Convent of St. Theresa until the liberal monarchy extinguished religious communities. The other Carmelite nun, her companion, left the country but "Madre" Rosa Maria obtained leave of her order to remain in Braga where she lived in retirement ever since, always carrying out the rules of her order as if she were still in the convent.

When the republic was proclaimed she was respected and allowed by the authorities to stay in view of her age, when other members of religious communities were expelled from the country.

Choral Societies To Be Organized By Local Clubs

Fargo, April 18.—Community oratorio and possibly opera will be the aim of the community music department of the North Dakota Federation of Music Clubs, according to Mrs. H. S. Walters of Mandan, department chairman. Programs similar to the "Ellijah," recently given in Fargo and Moorhead by local chorus and soloists, will be a step forward from the "community sing" so popular a few years ago.

Choral sections and societies will be organized by local clubs. Concerts of choral music will be planned. Cantatas and oratorios will probably be used extensively. The general aims of

ACHES AND PAINS—SLOAN'S GETS 'EM!

AVOID the misery of aching pain. Have a bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy and apply when you first feel the ache or pain.

It quickly eases the pain and sends a feeling of warmth through the aching part. Sloan's Liniment penetrates without rubbing.

Fine, too, for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains and strains, stiff joints, lame back and sore muscles.

For forty years pain's enemy. Ask your neighbor.

At all druggists—35c, 70c, $1.00.

Sloan's Liniment

Clear Your Complexion of pimples, spots and other facial disfigurement. Use freely Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Good for eczema, itching skin, and other skin troubles. One of Dr. Hobson's Family Remedies.
